DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's election without traverse of Dipeptidyl peptidase IV in Paper No. 6 is acknowledged. Claims 12-14 are withdrawn from further consideration by the examiner as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

The election of species requirement is still deemed to be proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-11 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wilkinson et al., Houston, Robison or Petell et al.

Each of the references teaches that Dipeptidyl peptidase IV (DPP IV) can be administered by nasal or aerosol administration.

It thus would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to load DPP IV into a device for administration of the enzyme to the nose since the art of record makes it clear that nasal and aerosol administration of DPP IV is well known. The art is clear that DPP IV can be administered to the nose thus to put the DPP IV into a device that delivers compositions to the nose would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art since the motivation is clearly there to administer the composition (DPP IV) to the nose.
